Wide open doors into exciting, new opportunities!

I'm practically bursting with excitement and anticipation as I am starting to see more fully God's future plans for what He has prepared for us in reaching Hungarian leaders with His truth through Leading Edge!

One of my main prayers has been that God would graciously allow for me to not have to struggle through many different strategies and failed ideas like is so common when starting something new. I have been working on finishing well with FEK and making sure I'm leaving relationships and work behind in a way that will provide for the easiest transition, so have had very little time yet to invest in building up our new ministry in the marketplace. I believe that the months of prayer and seeking God's guidance is what has allowed a short few hours to bear so much fruit!

The first amazing thing is that already I have TWO disciples! Both work in the marketplace and have teachable, ministry-oriented hearts that want to grow and reach their communities at work. One girl in particular, Eni, works in event planning for elite political and business events. She has only become a Christian within the last year and came up to me last week to ask if I would help her make an eternal difference among the people she works with.

The next amazing open door is that I have been invited by a well respected Christian business organization to partner with them. This means I have access to a huge network of people and lots of recourses and experiences available to me to learn from and hopefully soon ad to in order to reach even more people more effectively.

Another exciting development is that there is a new political party that has formed, basing their principles on Christian values. I have connected with them to offer Bible studies, prayer times, accountability and discipleship opportunities which they are open to!

I have started looking into partnering with a personal consultant company where I could be a life coach to executives, offering emotional intelligence mentoring, basing my observations on Christian morals and principles. So far, this also has had a positive response.

Praise God for allowing so quickly so many opportunities to come about! I am so excited to see where they lead! Thank you so much for your partnership! It is exciting to do ministry along side of you all!

Prayer requests

- * Please continue to pray for my transition. Praise God that so far it has been smooth and so very encouraging! Pray that I would be able to give a lot in the next couple weeks to FEK and make sure that on the communication end as well as the practical, everything would be finished well. And pray also for my new team, new boss and new environment that I would adjust well and quickly find where my place is.
- * Please pray for all these amazing opportunities that God has allowed me to start into! Pray for lots and lots of wisdom to know what to say yes to and what to wait on or pass up. Please pray for insight and good intuitive sensitivity to understand quickly the opportunities and know which to partner with.
- * Please continue to pray for my support and think through if you would like to continue to partner with me so that I can spend the least time out of the field and be able to jump right into this next ministry step!
