

Jodi Butts

Leading Edge, Hungary

WWW.LEADEDGE.ORG

bizalmi kör
inspiráció-értékek-Dialóg

The Bizalmi Kör - the Trustworthy Network

This month, I shared the gospel with the leader of the 'Trustworthy Network' AND held my very first coaching appointment with a man I met through this network. I love my job! :)

The 'Trustworthy Network' is the non-Christian morning breakfast circle that I attend on a bi-weekly basis. There are many influential business leaders from all over Hungary who come. This is the group that asked me to make the video for them last month. They have readily welcomed me and to my surprise, have embraced my coaching knowledge on communication and personal development. I have been so encouraged and reaffirmed that I have a place in these circles and yes, I do have much to give. It's been amazing growing into this role and then standing my ground when asked for my opinion and perspective on differing topics.

Peti, the owner and founder of this country wide network, invited me for coffee to talk about participating in the future growth of his company. Along with the offer to help with the leadership and direction, I was amazed to see Peti's openness and hunger for the gospel. I wasn't able to share in full, but can't wait to continue our discussion about Jesus, grace, legalism and trust in a higher being.

I was so so nervous when meeting Peti (a different Peti) for our coaching appointment. I knew that even though God has prepared the way, I wanted so badly to offer real help and encouragement and direction in the area that Peti wants to be coached in: developing his identity and understanding his own inner motivations. Also, I desire so much to learn the art of turning every coaching conversation into a gospel conversation while maintaining a healthy balance and staying professional. We had a great discussion and we both came away pleased. He made the comment multiple times throughout our hour long session about how, "wow, I've never thought about it that way", or "huh, that is true about my identity!". We started to talk about values and belief systems, but Peti strongly believes in himself and that he is able to control situations and make all that he wants in life to come about. I'm glad this first meeting was helpful, because he asked to meet weekly for coaching sessions :) What a privilege!

Praise God for His amazing work in Hungary and allowing me to take part in it! Thank you all for your faithful partnership in it as well!!!! :)

Jodi

Ways to reach me:

Email: jodi.danielle@gmail.com

Give by check: mail checks made out to Leading Edge to PO Box 1893 Noblesville, IN46061-1893

Give online: <http://www.leadedge.org/give.html>

Prayer requests

- * Please be praying for the Trustworthy Network leader, Peti. God is knocking on the doors of his life from many different directions. Pray that he would listen and trust God enough to submit and step out in faith to believe in Christ and want to live according the God's principles! Pray that God would use me to be a light and an example of what it means to be committed to Christ and how live a life of discipleship.
- * Please also pray for the other Peti, who I'm coaching. Pray for our times to be meaningful and helpful to him. Pray for me that I would ask good questions and have unique insight into who he is so that I can help him on a personal level, but also so that I can lead him into the truth about Jesus in a way that he would be able to identify with. Pray God would change his life and heart. Also, pray that he would give me a great reference so that I can continue to meet with leaders and continue to have this amazing opportunity to influence these leaders through life coaching.

LeadingEdge
INTERNATIONAL